“ I was the pastor’s wife at Boaz COG before the Bristows. While I was there, my own mother died. Barbara naturally and quietly slid into that role in my life becoming a like second mother to me. Your parents were my safe haven. I was constantly at their house. Bobby sold Casey way too many cars while we were there, which I fussed at him about as he just sat back and laughed. Barbara helped me pick up the pieces of my shattered heart and begin putting it back together. Your parents impacted my life far more than I impacted their lives. They will forever be a part of who I am. I loved them both more than life itself, and words will not do justice to say how sorry I am for you all. I know they are in a better place, but I am missing them.

“ I am so sorry for your loss Tony, Chris, and the family. I always loved Barbara's vibrant personality and the way she cared for Bobby over the years with his health issues. Please excuse my not being present but I just got the news. Sincerely Lane Johnson
