Tribute Wall

“ In Memory of Beamon Gibson

By Elton Camp

*For humanity in general, it's a minor thing
Beamon's passing but little note will bring*

*In the local paper, his obituary is printed
Only by few will his death be lamented*

*Those whom the notice happen to see
At most will say, now who was he?*

Beamon outlived most he ever knew Surviving family have become few

*Because his father cut and ran,
Too young, he became a man*

*Then, at Uncle Sam's demand
He helped resist a foreign land*

*For reasons only partly understood
He did what others said he should*

*Beamon married after his return
And his own way in life did earn*

*Bowling and travel were his delights
In east and west, he saw the sights*

*Youth, vigor and wife all disappeared
He was courageous as death neared*

*Beamon, it's been an honor to know you
Only by remembering can we show you*
